CHAPTER 2

2.1 My attitude towards sport in general

My Attitude Towards Sports in General

Sports play an important role in my life and I believe that they are a powerful tool for personal development and character building. Sports teach us discipline, perseverance, teamwork and the desire to improve. They inspire us to achieve our goals and help us overcome life’s challenges.

Since childhood, I have been passionate about sports and I am interested in trying myself in different sports. I strive to develop and explore my possibilities in various sports disciplines. There are some of the sports that I have tried myself in and that have had a significant impact on my attitude towards sports.

Swimming was one of the first sports that I became interested in. It helped me develop endurance, coordination and strength. Training in the pool taught me patience and perseverance. Swimming also helps strengthen the cardiovascular system and improves overall physical abilities. Every time I dive into the water, I feel freedom and lightness, which makes swimming one of my favorite activities.

Wrestling gave me an understanding of the importance of tactics and strategy in sports. Wrestling requires physical and mental strength, as well as the ability to make quick decisions and adapt to the situation on the mat. This sport not only teaches physical skills, but also helps develop self-confidence and the ability to cope with difficulties. Wrestling helped me understand that even in the most difficult situations, you can find a way out if you make an effort and do not give up.

Thai boxing taught me respect for the opponent and discipline. This sport requires excellent physical fitness, endurance and self-control. Thai boxing also develops speed, reaction and striking technique. Training in Thai boxing taught me self-control and respect for the opponent, and also helped me understand the importance of teamwork and supporting my teammates.

Weightlifting helped me develop strength and endurance. This sport requires precision, concentration and technical training. Weightlifting taught me to set high goals for myself and strive to achieve them. Every time I lift the barbell, I feel my muscles working to the limit, and this feeling of strength and control over my body brings me great satisfaction.

I admire athletes who achieve greatness in their sports and draw inspiration from their stories. They show that success is possible if you put in enough effort and believe in yourself.

Sport also unites people, creating a sense of community and solidarity. I believe that sport plays an important role in our culture and society, and that it continues to be a source of inspiration and motivation for people of all ages and professions. By doing sports, I not only improve my physical condition, but also find new friends and like-minded people with whom I can share the joy of victories and the bitterness of defeats.

For me, sport is not just a hobby, but a way of life. It helps me stay active, healthy and positive. I am sure that sport will continue to play an important role in my life and inspire me to new achievements and victories.

CONCLUSION

Ronnie Coleman, Mike Tyson, Cristiano Ronaldo and Alexander Ovechkin are great athletes who have achieved four incredible heights in their sports. Their careers are full of significant milestones that demonstrate outstanding achievements and a constant pursuit of excellence. These athletes have not only made a huge contribution to the development of sports, but also continue to inspire millions of people around the world to achieve their goals and achieve the necessary results.

Ronnie Coleman showed the world that willpower and hard work can turn an ordinary person into a true legend. His career, as a success of hard training and dedication, can lead to unprecedented recognition.

Mike Tyson has become a symbol of an unwavering spirit and desire to win, despite obstacles and difficulties of the game. His story inspires us to solve life's problems and achieve our goals.

Cristiano Ronaldo shows how discipline, hard work and love for your business can lead to worldwide recognition. His career is an example of how a person can achieve great heights while remaining true to his principles and values.

Alexander Ovechkin has proven that dedication to sport and a relentless pursuit of excellence can make an athlete an icon. His achievements and leadership on the ice inspire young hockey players around the world to achieve great goals.

All of these athletes leave indelible marks in their sports, becoming role models and sources of inspiration. Their stories teach us what is impossible to achieve with passion, determination and self-belief. They continue our sporting legends and inspire the next generation to achieve great things.
